

PACK 3081 ADOPT A FAMILY

Jennifer Rosenberg is a 36 year old single mom. Her sister has provided the history of Jennifer's medical conditions. My sister has had a history of Gardner's syndrome FAP which cause polyps and cyst and has been going to the Dr for this since she was a teenager. She underwent a major operation to remove her colon in 2003 they replaced it with what is called a J pouch (basically a fake colon inside her body. In May 2014, she was diagnosed with Invasive Adenocarcinoma colorectal cancer. We were devastated!! He said it was small and that he would try and go in and take it out and reconnect her as per her wishes. She didn't want him to remove everything. We asked about chemo and radiation or other test to see if there was any other cancer anywhere else and they said no. They said she was too small for chemo and it would destroy her pouch. And that there was no other test. She was also complaining of tailbone bone we asked if that could be cancer? They told us no! She had her surgery Oct 2014 to remove the cancer had an ileostomy for 3 months then had it reversed. We were told she was cancer free. And was ok! Feb 2015 rolls around and she is having problems with her tailbone again. After follow up scans the Dr. calls...THE REASON I CALLED YOU IN IS... you have cancer again. It's on your tailbone. So a pet scan was done which showed the cancer in her abdomen and on tailbone and lymph nodes. And now it has spread to her lungs. The Dr that had been treating my sister for years stopped returning her calls, the other Drs that are treating her showed us the scans and the tumors are most definitely on her tailbone in the scans back in 2014. I don't know why they were missed. Or how? But it's devastating! She is stage 4 and the Dr now told us without treatment she has months. And if she does treatment she will always have to be on chemo. So she is going on a very aggressive form of chemo. Since starting chemo Jennifer's health has declined and she has been hospitalized since Thanksgiving.

Let's help make some Christmas magic for this family ☺ Jennifer has 3 children Sadie, 16, Déjà, 12, and Braden, 7. Sadie loves to play soccer and Déjà plays volleyball. Both girls are typical teenagers who LOVE clothes, and have asked for Old Navy, Nike, Under Armour, Hollister, Abercrombie and Victoria Secrets or anything that is "in style". Both wear a small shirt, medium hoodies. Sadie is a size 0 while Déjà is a 3. They are girly girls. Braden is your typical energy filled boy who loves everything that comes on the TV. He wears a size 7 boys clothes and LOVES Nike and cartoons. Jennifer loves the color purple, the beach, and Mickey Mouse. She also enjoys decorating her house with things like Live Laugh Love. The main colors of her home including burgundy and tan. Monetary donations can also be made at www.youcaring.com/christmasmagic

Any contribution to help this young lady is much appreciated as well as prayers for strength and the endurance to fight through this rigorous battle. Thank you and God bless ☺
